

MASTER OF SCIENCE IN KINESIOLOGY

2026 SUPPLEMENTAL APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

The Master of Science in Kinesiology (MSc Kin) is a thesis-based degree program that offers students an opportunity to train in a world-class facility with state-of-the-art equipment and leading faculty researchers. It is offered as both a two-year or 24 months full-time program and on a flex-time basis for 4 years (2 years/24 months + 6 flex terms/24 months).

Students in the program will complete required coursework and a research-based thesis. Under the mentorship of a faculty supervisor, students will conduct their research-based thesis in an area broadly related to the study of health and physical activity, such as biomechanics and ergonomics, exercise and environmental physiology, behavioural neuroscience, physical activity and health promotion, coaching, sport and performance psychology, or sport management. A supervisor must be identified as a condition of acceptance into the program. All applicants are encouraged to review the MSc Kinesiology faculty profiles and contact potential supervisors prior to applying to the program. Applicants may apply to the program without an identified supervisor, but run the risk of being declined admission because a faculty member willing to supervise their thesis could not be found.

The MSc Kin program operates using a mentor model. The benefits of a mentor model are numerous, including clarification of research and other funding support at the time of application and focused supervision from the time of registration. The MSc Kin program prepares graduates for further research training (e.g., doctoral, and post-doctoral studies) and a broad range of careers in Kinesiology and related fields, such as medicine, public health, rehabilitation, occupational health and safety, sport, fitness, education, government, and industry.
